Arkansas-based WeCare Denali, LLC Acquires the Assets of Harvest New England LLC and Harvest Mid-Atlantic LLC

Russellville, Arkansas – Andy McNeill, President & CEO of Denali Water Solutions, is pleased to announce the acquisition of certain assets of Harvest New England LLC and Harvest Mid-Atlantic LLC compost, mulch, and soil operations in Connecticut and Maryland, through its wholly owned subsidiary, WeCare Denali, LLC.

“We are thrilled to expand our geographical footprint that will allow us to provide additional products and services to new and existing customers,” said Andy McNeill. “The acquisition of the assets of Harvest New England and Mid-Atlantic LLCs aligns with our goal to promote the circular economy with landfill alternatives and strengthens our company’s mission to make the world a better place by handling waste responsibly,” he added.

The facilities produce high-quality landscaping products (compost, mulch, topsoil, and custom blends) from recycled organic materials (leaves, wood, brush, and food waste). Harvest New England LLC facilities are in Ellington, Fairfield, Farmington, and Wallingford, Connecticut. Harvest Mid-Atlantic LLC facilities are in Woodbine and Lothian, Maryland. The acquisition reinforces WeCare Denali, LLC’s expertise in operating and managing compost facilities in the United States and strengthens its leadership position with its WeCare Compost® brands.

About Denali Water Solutions and WeCare Denali

Denali Water Solutions is a specialty waste and environmental services company that believes it is the collective responsibility of us all to protect the quality of water and natural resources through recycling waste in ways that are sustainable, can be beneficially reused, and reduce or eliminate the use of landfills. Our vision is to meet this responsibility by offering innovative and economically effective solutions for the management, handling, disposal, and conversion of a variety organic waste materials through beneficial reuse, composting, and anaerobic digestion for the customers and communities we serve.

WeCare Denali, LLC is the company’s wholly owned subsidiary focused on producing best in class compost, mulch, and soil products from recycled waste. WeCare Denali’s services and products are known for quality, consistency, and value throughout the landscaping, construction, and agricultural industries.
